>> >> A: c#: You didn't show the exact input, but since you're doing a.zip, you probably need to specify the extension, like so: `File.ReadAllLines(@"\Users\XXX\Desktop\Test.txt") .Select(x => x.Split(new[] { " " }, StringSplitOptions.None) .First(y => y[0] == "BonCasClient(1.1.1)")) .Select(x => x[1]) .ToArray()` .Net fiddle here: Note that this is just for an example. You could also use `Contains()`, e.g. `.Where(x => x.Contains("BonCasClient(1.1.1)"))` Q: CakePHP 3 - Rename Table I am building a CakePHP 3 application, using cakephp/cakephp 3.1.13. A: The new method is now in CakePHP 3.2. You can read more about it in the migration guide. As mentioned in the guide, you can use the following way: `$this->model->renameTable('users', 'custom_users');` You can see the one she's wearing in these three photos, but if you want to make up a ball you can use the ones in her closet.
